

Are you a parent or caregiver of a teen on the autism spectrum?

Your teen is invited to participate in an online research study, “Autistic Perspectives on Participation and Quality of Life.”

In this study, we want to learn about your teen’s activities, how they feel about their lives, and how they like to answer questions about themselves.

We are looking for teens who:

- are between 13-17 years old
- understand English
- can communicate in English (using spoken language or other ways, like typing, spelling, or using a tablet)
- have access to a camera-enabled or compatible device
- have internet access

First, your teen will be asked to take pictures and answer questions about their pictures for four days.

Then, they will be asked to participate in an interview (~60 minutes), where they will answer other questions and talk more about the pictures they took.

Your family will receive up to $100 for your teen’s participation in the study.

To learn more, contact the research team at:
emily.skaletski@northwestern.edu